

Image
coming soon

Linda Rowley joined The Cotswold School governing body in December 2016 as a parent governor. With a background in education she has taught in both the maintained and independent sectors and was a primary school Headteacher for 10 years. She is currently an academy improvement director for a multi academy trust in the south west as well as being an Ofsted inspector. She has twice been a parent governor and was the nominated governor for safeguarding, standards and performance. She has up to date knowledge of the curriculum and school improvement. Linda has a daughter at The Cotswold School and another daughter of primary school age.